INTRODUCTION

Dr. Sebi's alkaline diet is aimed towards changing the potential hydrogen (pH) level in our body. The major change that occurs in the body of anyone that sticks to this alkaline diet is a shift from an acidic side of neutral (pH of 7) to an alkaline side of neutral. The logic and backbone of this diet is the discovery that diseases can never survive in an alkaline environment which is why Dr. Sebi's diet is based on alkaline foods only.

There is more to the alkaline diet than meets the eye. A few lines of short sentences is not enough to detail everything you need to know about it. This is why in this book, we are going to take a closer look at some cogent points made by Dr. Sebi.

Not quite long ago, I wrote a book on Dr. Sebi's recommended smoothies as well a breakdown of his nutritional guide and his herbs and its benefits in curing different diseases. The Honduran Herbalist, Dr. Sebi is well revered for positively changing the lives of many around with his herbal knowledge. These so called changes were made possible by an alkaline diet which he tagged "African Bio-Electric Cell Food Therapy."

After winning a court case in a New York supreme court, Dr. Sebi was exclusively interviewed by Rock Newman.

Why was he in court? You might ask.

Dr. Sebi was actually in court for allegedly practicing medicine without a license and making claims that have been deemed impossible in the medical field. In the end, Dr. Sebi duly defended himself and won his court case. In the above mentioned interview, Dr. Sebi further elaborated on having cured his patients of AIDS. Apparently, this claim did not go down well with some bigwigs in the medical field and Dr. Sebi went from a bad situation to a worse one as he obviously turned a few interested heads. Dr. Sebi authoritatively said you that his alkaline diet was what was responsible for the AIDS cure. One thing I can however assure you, with my chest out is that, Dr. Sebi's alkaline diet has positively helped many.

What exactly is Dr. Sebi Alkaline Diet and how does it work?

When alkaline foods are discussed at length, confusions will arise. This is quite understandable as many has claimed that the primary state of any food is what determines its effect in the body. I was also confused by this logic at first but after some in-depth research, I came to understand that the alkaline or acidic state of any food is not always relevant to its effect in the body.

How can acidic foods become alkalizing foods?

Curated data has shown that there are some irregularities in what Doctor Sebi teaches about alkaline and acidic foods. The tables have however been turned with the development of Potential Renal Acid Load (PRAL). Dr. Sebi teaches that any food that is acidic in nature will be acidic in the body. He also advised that starchy foods should be avoided at all cost.

Using the PRAL score, let us take a look at various highly acidic examples. A naturally acidic lemon has an alkalizing effect in the body. This claim is almost confusing right? How could a lemon which is highly acidic in nature have an alkalizing effect on the body when introduced to gastric level with an average level of between 1.5 to 3.5?

There are different factors that can influence this kind of change and one of them is cooking which can change and alter the chemical structure and composition of food. In the case of lemon switching from its acidic state to an alkaline state, no cooking was involved. When a lemon fruit is consumed, it is processed, digested and metabolized in the body. This whole process creates a byproduct with an alkalizing effect in the body. The relationship between food and its resultant Ph is what confirms the PRAL score to be an effective measure. This does not in any way explain how Dr. Sebi's alkaline diet works.

A quick look into the studies of the proponents of the alkaline diets will make the relationship between the body's state and overall health crystal clear. Dr. Sebi always emphasized on herbs being electric and alkalizing to be perfectly assimilated with the body. The positive effects of Dr. Sebi's alkaline diet has been linked to unadulterated herbs, fruits and vegetables. After these claims were made, there have been several independent studies looking into the effects of alkaline diet on the human body and its overall health. Some of these studies that delved into the relationship between cancers and alkaline revealed that cancer cannot thrive in an alkalized body but it can progressively thrive in an acidic one. This was something the late doctor also extensively spoke about.

The backbone of Dr. Sebi's alkaline diet is the discovery that the human body is alive and electric in nature. Therefore, to further keep it alive and functioning like it should, the food that should be ingested into the body should also be alive and electric. This diet is also known as a high vibration diet. One in which the life force of food is preserved until it is consumed through any of these methods:

- Eating raw foods
- Not eating some foods, including some fruits and vegetables
- Not eating acidic foods
- Not eating foods with starch in them
- Not eating processed foods

As earlier highlighted, Dr. Sebi spoke extensively about the compromised nutritional value of foods that has been engineered either through cross-pollination, hybrid refining and various forms of husbandry. Examples of crops mentioned in this category includes corn, beans, carrot, cashew etc. You can dig deeper on this subject matter if you want to.

Another well talked about topic by Dr. Sebi is the energetic properties of food. This is all about how a food's energetic force field gets devalued via cooking. The same theory applies to canned, non-organic and GMO foods. The body rids itself of acidity through a process of fasting and introduction of alkalizing foods. Doctor Sebi made an example of himself with claims that he fasted for an extensive period of three months in a bid to cure himself of impotency, obesity, diabetes and asthma. The herbalist also spoke at length about the medicinal wonders of introducing sea moss into his diet and that of his patients. Besides being an alkalizing food, sea moss also contains more than enough minerals the body needs to stay strong. One of these minerals is collagen. The more you know about how collagen helps the body to stay strong, the more interested you will be in introducing sea moss to your diet. Several people disagreed with Dr. Sebi's teachings and his methods have been scrutinized over time but he was and is still a genius who cure ALL diseases.
